THE SCENT OF BLOOD

In the days before the railways came to the panhandle of western Texas the ranchers often drove their cattle three or four hundred miles to a railway point from which they could ship them to market. They did not make a forced drive, for that would have taken the fat from the grass fed beefs, but allowed the cattle to graze as they proceeded. They often took six weeks to make the drive so that the cattle should be in prime condition when they reached the railway.

Late in the spring of '84 seven men started from the Henderson ranch at the head of Brazos river with two thousand long horned Texas steers they were taking "up the trail" three hundred miles to a shipping point in western Kansas. Some days they would drive as far as fifteen miles; at times they would hold the herd a day or two at a place where grass was good and water was plentiful.

In addition to the foreman, the cook and four cowboys, Nat Henderson, the sixteen year old son of the ranch owner, went with the trail herd. He was as good a cowboy as any of them and took his twelve hours in the saddle every day and stood guard with one of his companions for a third of each night. Trail driving was far from being a pleasant outing, for on stormy nights when the cattle were restless the guard had to be doubled, and the men got little sleep.

For three weeks the cowboys drove through open country, going for days at a time without coming in sight of a ranch house. The range was not heavily stocked, and the drivers had little difficulty in keeping their cattle from their herd. It was after they had crossed the corner of Indian Territory and had entered the state of Kansas where there were a few settlers—the Texas boys called them "movers"—that their troubles began. There the grass was not as good as it had been, and once the hungry steers made a break for a small unfenced field of wheat just beginning to ripen before the boys could herd them off the steers had destroyed the crop, for which the foreman was obliged to pay the rate owner. After that one of the men rode ahead of the herd to keep a sharp watch for the scattered fields as well as to drive back the becoming mixed with the herd.

On account of the unfriendly attitude of settlers toward cattlemen in general, it was sometimes difficult to get water for the steers. Many of the creeks and waterholes had been fenced. The party were within fifty miles of the railway—a matter of four or five days' drive—when they were forced to go fifteen miles without water. It was a hot June day, and the cattle strung out for half a mile; the leaders would start forward eagerly at sight of every dry ravine or growth of timber that might indicate the presence of water.

Nat Henderson rode at the head of the restless herd, keeping a sharp lookout for range stock and for the little sod houses that would mark the proximity of a field. Just as he topped a rise he saw far ahead a band of five or six antelope flung across the prairie. From a clump of brush came three puffs of smoke, and a man with a gun in his hand stood up. It was too far away for Nat to hear the report, and he could not tell whether the hunter had hit one of the animals. But a moment later he saw a horse drawing a light vehicle of some sort emerge from a ravine at the right and head for the lone hunter.

As the trail dropped gradually to the lower ground, Nat was unable to see either the hunter or the wagon for half an hour. When he reached the next rise, he saw them barely two hundred yards away. The man threw something into the light wagon and immediately climbed to the seat by the side of small boy who had been driving.

"Sack luck!" Nat exclaimed in disgust and spurred his horse along to turn the leaders of the herd down to the draw to the right. He knew that the man had shot an antelope and had thrown the carcass into the wagon. There would be blood on the ground and the smell of it would set the half wild cattle to mulling and probably cause no end of trouble. He glanced back, but the nearest of his companions was three hundred yards away. He would do the best he could when he did not succeed in turning the leaders until they were abreast of the spot where the antelope had fallen. It was not more than seventy-five yards distant, and when an old spotted steer threw his head into the air and snuffed, Nat knew that he would not get them quietly past the place. As if drawn by a magnet, a dozen or more of the cattle swerved to the left, and in spite of his yelling and striking them with his quirt, Nat was forced to let them have their way.

Two minutes later only a compact mass of heaving backs and tossing horns could be seen about the spot where the antelope had bled. The stranger had stopped his horse and was gazing with curious wonder at the spectacle of the milling cattle. Presently some of the steers on the outskirts of the melee swung off and with noses to the ground like trailing dogs headed straight for the hunter and his dilapidated rig; at intervals they stopped to paw the blood-scented grass.

Nat spurred forward and shouted a warning. He saw now that the man, who doubtless was a prospector or hunter, had merely slit the throat of the dead antelope and had thrown it into the wagon with its head over the tailboard, so that it might bleed as he drove along. The cattle were intent upon following the trail of blood. The man either did not hear the warning cry or thought that he knew what he was about; he did not move at once.

Nat was quick to see the danger that threatened the man and his little boy and without hesitating an instant spurred his horse toward them. When he had covered half the distance they had started on, and the cattle were moving much faster than the old horse could pull the wagon. "Here mister, you better dump that antelope out if you want to get away from here alive," Nat shouted when he was twenty or thirty yards of the vehicle.

"I reckon not," the man retorted. "I didn't shoot it to throw away. I reckon it won't be no trick to scare them cattle back if they come too close."

A backward glance showed a broadening stream of the cattle coming on at a gallop; the foremost were within thirty yards of the wagon and were rapidly gaining. Riding up by the side of the wagon, Nat again urged the man to shove the carcass of the antelope out over the tailboard, but an obstinate shake of the head was all the answer he got. Luckily enough the man had never had his experience with Texas cattle. The raucous bellowing and the thunder of hoofs drowned all other sounds.

Nat felt that he had done his duty in warning the man, but here he was not willing to leave him to his fate. It was evidently ignorance more than an ingratitude that caused the man to ignore the warning, and Nat determined to get him out of his predicament even if he had to do it against the fellow's will.

He urged his horse as close as he could to the rear end of the wagon, but the wiry creature snorted and shied at the smell of blood. It was clear to Nat that he must resort to other means. Swiftly he coiled the lariat rope that hung at his saddle horn and with a dexterous whirl he dropped the noose over the swinging head of the dead antelope. A second later the carcass lay on the ground, and Nat dropped the end of his lariat. Much as he hated to lose the good rope he didn't care to risk getting down in front of a herd of cattle on the verge of a stampede.

The man in the wagon had turned round just in time to see his game strike the ground. His exclamation of anger quickly changed to a wail of dismay as he saw the living wall of frenzied cattle bearing down upon him.

It was only a few seconds before the van had reached the carcass of the antelope, but they were permitted to halt barely a second; the surging mass of hundreds behind them pushed them forward. Nat's hope that the cattle would give up the chase as soon as the carcass was thrown out, died within him. They were too close now to be checked. Possibly not more than a hundred of the creatures were aware that the slain animal they had scented was on the ground. Their eyes had been on the wagon, and they came up without a halt.

Riding up by the side of the wagon, Nat gave the old horse a slap with his quirt; but the poor beast was doing his best and could hardly trot with the wagon on the slight uphill grade. With the exception of a few cattle that had scented the blood on the tailboard of the wagon, the herd was trying to pass on either side.

"Take my boy on your horse and save him," the man shouted above the roar of hoofs, for now he realized that, once caught in the divided stream of lumbering beasts, the wagon and its occupants would be crushed like an eggshell.

Nat rode close and shouted back, "Do as I tell you, and we'll get you out too. Jump on your horse quick! I'll cut him loose. Don't wait—I'll get the boy!"

With swift understanding the man dropping his lines and making a flying leap over the dashboard to the back of his horse, continued to urge him on. As he looked back expectantly he saw Nat sweep the boy off the seat and swing him up behind him on the back of the cowpony.

Within two seconds Nat was riding by the shaft of the wagon, with his

Too Good For Poor Printing

When your printer, with a shrug of his shoulders, says:

"I can't turn out the job at that price,"

Give a little more consideration to his opinion. If he has been your printer for quite a while, and has given you good work, fair service, and charged moderate prices, don't hand over the order to some other printer merely because his estimates appear to save you a few cents.

It may be that your printer has figured on more costly material, extra press work or better typography. The few cents more he wants you to pay may mean the difference between good printing and poor printing.

Talk it over with him. It would be far better to say: "I have so much money to spend. Give me the best job the money will buy." If he is a reliable printer he will do this, or he will tell you that the work cannot be done properly for the expenditure you contemplate.

No good printer can afford to turn out his work at a loss. And if he is a good printer, he will not attempt cheap work, because he knows that the result will not be consistent with his standards. Your printer has a reputation he must maintain; your firm has a standing which should not be lowered by the appearance of your printed matter.

Alberta a Most Wonderful Country

An Alberta newspaper points out some of the ways in which Canada is one of the most wonderful countries in the world. It says: "Quebec has 90 per cent of all the world's asbestos; Ontario 90 per cent of all the world's nickel; Alberta alone has 15 per cent of all the world's coal. We have coal and iron at tide-water east and west, an asset that occurs in but few places in the world, and one that largely contributed to Great Britain's greatness. We are third gold producers of the world and going rapidly towards first place. We have silver, copper, lead, zinc, cobalt, quartz, gypsum, mica, cement, clay, sand, asphalt, lime, sand and gravel, stone, arsenic, salt, oil natural gas and 25 other minerals. We have timber, fur, fisheries, great agricultural areas, 18,250,000 horse power in our waterways. We have great routes to which to carry our trade, and a virile manhood second to none."

Canada is World's Largest Wheat Exporter

A forecast of the United States wheat crops by the United States department of agriculture indicates that the part which Canada must play in supplying the world's wheat market will this year be more important than ever, as a falling off of 212,000,000 bushels is anticipated in the United States. Canada is already the largest exporter of wheat in the world and these figures indicate that she is with in measurable distance of becoming the largest actual producer.

Have Advantage
in Freight Rates

Canada enjoys the lowest freight rates of any country in the world, according to claims made by executive of the Canadian railways who recently appeared in Ottawa in connection with the discussions on freight rates. It is also claimed that the rates on Canadian railways are considerably below those of the competitive lines in the United States. This contention is supported by the report on the wheat situation made to the president of the United States by the late Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, in which it was pointed out that Canadian farmers enjoyed great advantages over American farmers on account of the lower freight rates in Canada.

THE CANADIAN FLAG

Ottawa, July 15.—Although the government had cancelled the committee which had been appointed to consider designs for a new flag with the Canadian escutcheon on the Union Jack, protests are still coming in, largely from Orange lodges in Ontario. They are based on the theory that it was intended to replace the Union Jack whereas it has been explained in parliament that no such idea was entertained. Rather, as a compliment to the Canadian flag at sea, it was proposed that there should be in addition to the Union Jack, and using the latter as a base, a distinct flag to fly on land, the same as Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have. Nothing now is to be done until parliament acts in the matter.

While there is indication of the Ontario protest being organized, the way the subject was tackled and some aspects of the personnel of the committee, suggested that the effort was rather unimportant.

The Canadian flag now authorized is used only by government-owned vessels and other vessels on the Canadian registry. It is a flag proper for naval use only, though the red ensign is used on land. In the former case the flag is the blue ensign with the Canadian arms in the fly, while merchant vessels on the Canadian registry use a similar red ensign. Under an order-in-council passed some years ago it was provided that the red ensign, with the Canadian arms in the fly, be flown over the office of the Canadian high commissioner in London as well as over Canadian offices abroad, but the flag was never authorized.

We get to know some of the news, but not as much as we would like. Phone your news to 27, or write and address it to The Times.

THE GOOD NEIGHBOR

"He was a splendid neighbor," the pastor said today, extolling Silas Sabre, who lately passed away. "He had no talents glowing, no great renown he drew, but in his to-and-fro, he found some good to do; when men were in disaster, he'd come and plow their soil; he always had a plaster when someone had a boil. If men were pale and drooping beneath misfortune's sting, old Silas came kerfwhopping with healing in his wings. But here's the greatest glory in Silas Sabre's crown: He listened to no story that ran a neighbor down. Once, summoned to a marriage, to make two lovers one, I pushed my chee-choo carriage as fast as she could run. A speed cop overtook me and summoned me to court, and all my friends forsook me and called me timorous sport! A person plucked for speeding! Was ever such a crime? Men hoped they'd see me wedding the tall year for a time. And sundry brouchy deacons insisted I resign, for persons should be beacons to keep the good in line. But good old Silas Sabre, he was a sight to see, when he went forth to labor with those who roared me! Then all the grumbling divorced, Samuel was the happy remark, and I was thus delivered from trouble dire and dark. To be a neighbor splendid! What better praise is there, now that his life is ended, his history laid bare?"

IS IMPORTANT

We have it on the authority of no less a person than the Dominion poultry husbandman, that the problem of small eggs is becoming more and more pronounced the longer the breeding for high egg production is continued. Thus it becomes necessary, as he further says in his report for 1924, that the greatest care in selecting a male to head the flock should be taken to see that he is from large egg stock. Records do not show that a high producing bird is bound to lay a small egg, but they indicate that unless careful selection is followed there is a tendency for the size of eggs to decrease as production increases. A bird that does not lay eggs that average 24 ounces to the dozen cannot be registered no matter how many eggs she may lay. Attention to this matter of size, as well as to heavy yield, is being given by the poultry division at Ottawa and data is being collected that will be made public, as the report says, in due season.

W. C. MacLean Promotes
Two Grain Companies

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. MacLean and family left for Edmonton last week and will reside there in future. Mr. MacLean is managing director of the Banner Grain Co. Ltd., and is active in promoting the affairs of the company. The Banner Grain Co. is the second grain company which Mr. MacLean has promoted locally, the other being the North West Grain Co. Ltd. The latter company has been a marked success and the same degree of success is confidently expected to follow the promotion of the Banner Grain Co. The head offices are in the C.P.R. building at Edmonton and Mr. MacLean's removal there was made necessary by his close connection with the company—Vergil Observer. Mr. and Mrs. MacLean are former Wetaskiwin citizens.

Here and There

The entire Province of Prince Edward Island and adjacent islands have been leased for oil prospecting purposes to Henry L. Doherty & Company, according to an announcement by the government. The lease has been taken on option.

Indications are that 1925 will be one of the best tourist seasons ever experienced by Montreal. It is estimated that 750,000 people from all over the continent visited Montreal last year, while this year the number is placed at a million.

It is understood that a contract has been let for the laying of a submarine cable from Vancouver Island to Suva, Fiji Islands, by the Pacific Cable Board. This is part of the "All-red" cable and wireless route which is being established between British possessions the world over.

In order to facilitate the work of the air force patrol radio stations are being erected at the Pas, Norway House, Victoria Beach, and Fort Osborne Barracks, Winnipeg. The stations will be connected shortly and will have, it is stated, a radius of communication all over Canada.

"Judging from the amount of sound business activity noticeable here, British Columbia is launching into an era of constructive development which augurs well for her future prosperity," comments Grant Hall, Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who recently spent ten days on the Pacific Coast.

"So long as the Canadian Pacific Railway has a dollar left in its treasury, it will fight for the ideals, uphold the faith and maintain the precious heritage of confederation," said E. W. Betty, Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, when addressing the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at their annual convention held at Hamilton recently.

Eleven hundred pounds of speckled trout, gray trout and pike were the trophies taken by New York recently by seven members of the Caughnawaga Hunting and Fishing Club, private preserves near Montreal, after a two-week stay on the fishing grounds. The catch included 15-1b. gray trout and the average weight worked out at around eight pounds.

Frank W. Ashby, secretary of the Australian Manufacturers' Association, visiting here recently, said the impression in Australia was that Canada was the back door to the North Pole. People in the Antipodes think that Herschel Island and Baffin's Bay are linked up principally with Montreal and Winnipeg, he said. He was surprised to find the Dominion had a delightful climate and cities more modern than those in Australia.

What is stated to be the biggest log jam in sixty years recently occurred on the Montreal River in a gorge through which the river flows into Lake Temiskaming. 300,000 logs were piled up to a height of 50 feet with a width of 250 yards, choking the river for 300 yards down at the point where the jam took place. An army of 100 men, working night and day for three days, at last succeeded in breaking the jam with dynamite.

A three-week tour of Canada by teachers and their friends, under the auspices of Dean S. Laird, of Macdonald College, will leave Toronto July 20 on the Canadian Pacific Railway. The party will travel by train to Vancouver and Victoria, and will return by way of Southern British Columbia, across the northern end of the Prairie Provinces and by boat from Fort William east. Stops will be made at all the principal points of interest.

HOW TO ANSWER AN ANONYMOUS LETTER

A well known author on leaving his house one morning forgot a letter he had intended to mail. During the afternoon something recalled it to his mind, and as it was of considerable importance, he hurried home.

The letter was nowhere to be found. He summoned his servant, "Have you seen anything of a letter of mine lying about?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where is it?"

"Potted, sir."

"Potted? Why, I had not written the name and address on the envelope!"

"I know that, sir, but I thought it must be in answer to one of them anonymous letters you've been getting lately."

OBITUARY

MRS. STROHSCHNEIN

Another of the earliest settlers of the Wetaskiwin district was called to her eternal home on Monday, the 14th inst., in the person of Johanna Stroh, beloved wife of Bridson Stroh, 84 years of age, at the age of sixty-eight years. She had been in delicate health for some time, being a sufferer from heart trouble. She was born in Poland, and came to Canada with her family in the year 1883, and located several miles west of Wetaskiwin, where she has since resided.

The deceased was one of the first white women to settle west of Wetaskiwin, an fact that thirty-two years ago—there was only one store here, and no roads through the thick trees and undergrowth. She therefore suffered all the hardships and privations accompanying pioneer life, and she had quite a struggle to raise her large family. She was of gentle disposition, and very hospitable, and many of the early settlers can recall many acts of kindness done by her, often at a personal sacrifice.

She was the last of the family which immigrated from the old country, as her brother, the late Carl Dickau, predeceased her a few months ago.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a husband and seven children, of whom one daughter, namely, Herman, Henry, Fred, Paul, Ed and Albert, and Mrs. Wm. Falkenberg, of Leduc, besides a number of friends and acquaintances.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon, services being held at the late residence, and at the German Baptist church, Rev. Benke, assisted by Rev. Abraham Hager, I. Corbathian, 25, was quoted and referred to as a special promise. The funeral, conducted by Mr. Ed. Dickau, followed several beautiful selections, the remains being laid beside those of his son, who predeceased him about six years ago.

Floral tributes were received from the family; Rev. and Councillors of Montgomery Municipality; R.N.W.M.P.; Stella and Garnett Summers; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. G. Baker; Dr. and Mrs. Stewart; B. Bosman, Round Hill; Eva and Alvin La Belle.

STANLEY C. SWANSON

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swanson are mourning the loss of their son, Stanley Clarence, who was taken from them by the angel of death on Sunday last, after only one day's illness. He was aged five months and twenty-seven days. The funeral took place Monday evening, interment being made in the Wetaskiwin cemetery. Rev. A. L. Elliott conducted the service. The many friends of the deceased extend their deepest sympathy in their hour of sorrow.

BABY MCKENNA

The host of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Francis McKenna regret to learn that their little daughter, which was born to them in the Wetaskiwin hospital on Tuesday of last week, was taken from them the following day. Loving hands laid the little remains away in the Wetaskiwin cemetery on Thursday, the service being conducted by Rev. A. L. Elliott.

ALBERT STEWART TAYLOR

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Taylor in the loss of their only son, Albert Stewart, who was born at the Wetaskiwin hospital on Saturday, and was removed from them by the angel of death on Monday. The remains were recently laid away in the Wetaskiwin cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

JOHN L. PEARSON

A prominent figure has been removed from the district in the person of John L. Pearson, who passed away at the University Hospital, Edmonton, on July 5, while undergoing an operation. He was born in Nottingham, England, about sixty-six years ago, and was educated at the Bedford Grammar School. He came to Canada in the year 1875, and two years later joined the N.W.M.P. and as a member of this force saw many parts of the prairie provinces. He served as a policeman for about six years, and took a prominent part in the Red Rebellion, receiving a medal for the service rendered his country during the uprising. Shortly after the rebellion, he severed his connection with the force, and settled on a farm in the Bitton Lake district, where he lived until about six years ago, when he and his family moved to Wetaskiwin.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a widow and one daughter, Mary, at home. As an old-timer in the community, he was well known, and was held in the highest esteem by a very large circle of friends and acquaintances.

MOTORISTS WARNED REGARDING USE OF GLARING HEADLIGHT

Complaints are being received all over the province by the Alberta provincial police with respect to glaring headlights on automobiles. The motorist drives along the highway at night with a glare light which he refuses to dim when approaching a car being driven in the opposite direction. This is not only irritating to the party meeting such lights but is also very dangerous. Motor traffic is increasing very rapidly and this menace, being an infraction of the Motor Vehicles act, is going to be dealt with very severely. The police have strict orders to check this matter and prosecute without warning any infraction of the act in this respect. We would advise all motorists that the next time they are in a garage to get their lights tested and if necessary adjusted to the proper and lawful requirements. The act provides that:—"All lamps carried on the front of a motor vehicle shall be so arranged that no portion of the direct beam of reflected or refracted light issuing therefrom shall, when measured 75 feet ahead of such lamps, rise above 42 inches from the level surface on which the motor vehicle stands."

who deeply regret his departure.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, from Wainwright & Jackson's Parlors, Edmonton, service being assisted by Rev. Canon Crampton-Ching, assisted by Rev. Canon Carruthers. The interment took place in the family plot in Mount Pleasant cemetery, the remains being laid beside those of his son, who predeceased him about six years ago.

Floral tributes were received from the family; Rev. and Councillors of Montgomery Municipality; R.N.W.M.P.; Stella and Garnett Summers; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. G. Baker; Dr. and Mrs. Stewart; B. Bosman, Round Hill; Eva and Alvin La Belle.

Grand Exalted Ruler Visitor to Wetaskiwin

Colonel Royal Burritt, of Winnipeg, Grand Exalted Ruler of the B.P.O. of Elks of Canada, paid an official visit to the Wetaskiwin Elks' lodge on Wednesday of this week. He was met at the train by a committee headed by P. A. Miquelon, exalted ruler of the Wetaskiwin lodge, and in the afternoon was taken for a drive through the country, and played a game of golf on the local course. In the evening, at the conclusion of the lodge meeting, he was entertained at a banquet served in the Briard Hotel.

MRS. R. B. GUNN URGES CHANGES IN SYSTEM

Coronation, July 11.—Speaking in the Star theatre building, Mrs. R. B. Gunn, president of the United Farm Women of Alberta, emphasized the paramount importance of having the final examination of intending immigrants take place at the point of embarkation instead of as it does now, at the point of debarkation. The result is a hardship to many who are turned back, after having broken up their home, to find on arrival that they are not allowed to stay on on account of some cause which should have been discovered before they were allowed to embark. A resolution to this effect has been sent to Premier King by the U.F.W.A., and the objection put up by the immigration authorities was the expense that would be entailed by a staff for that purpose and the cry was for the cutting down of administration expenses instead of adding to them.

Mrs. Gunn suggested that the matter should be taken up by the women for further action. Speaking of cadet training and the $400,000 involved in the practice, she said that if the federal government would grant the provincial departments of education the money to be spent on the physical education of boys and girls, that more good would accrue. It costs five dollars annually per cadet, but the girls are not considered in the scheme at all. The speaker did not attack the cadet expenditure from a millaristic point of view, but thought that physical education of girls is as important as that of boys. The provinces could pay a share of the expenses per rate.

The Community Property bill brought before the Alberta legislature by Mrs. Irene Parbury and which has passed its first reading in the provincial house at the last session, should be studied and suggestions made by the women of Alberta, so that it might be changed or amended if they so desired at the next session. Mrs. Gunn said that the bill was of importance to women. Cooperative marketing was making considerable headway by the women of Alberta, as the principle is conceded good. It is simply a continuing process now, and she wanted to see Alberta the

CORRECTION

An error was made last week in the report of the harness race on July 2nd, when E. J. Kelley's horse, "J. B. Wilks" was credited with winning, "Miss Queenie" second. Only two heats were run in this race, J. B. Wilks winning the first heat, and Miss Queenie the second. Mr. Kelley's horse was unable to go for the third heat, and although Mr. Wilks could have claimed the race by default, he agreed, under the circumstances, to divide the purse with Mr. Kelley.

first province in the domain with good complete for all the farmer produced. Mrs. Gunn soothed the possibly alarmed non-producers in the audience with the statement that with complete cooperation and higher prices to farmers, the cost to the consumer would be less because of cutting out of middlemen's profits. She wanted this province to be known as the great provincial cooperative Alberta.

EXPERIMENTS IN NEW VARIETY OF CLOVER

A new variety of clover seed may be placed on the market before long, which will be known as Perry's Pride. Arthur Perry, inspector of soldier settler farms in the southern part of the province, and a man who has probably done more to make known to the world that fodder and grass can be raised in the south of Alberta to compete with the best, is the originator in Canada.

Mr. Perry has in his garden plot at Lethbridge three clover plants in full bloom, and though he has asked every agronomy expert he has been able to find, none have been able to tell him the name of the variety. The plant today stands 38 inches high, has huge white blossoms as large as the mammoth red, which the east raises so successfully, and with its oblong leaves and soft stem, it promises to be something of a find in the way of a legume fodder crop if its field trials prove successful.

The manner in which it came to Lethbridge is very interesting. Previous to 1910 when Mr. Perry was farming in Cardston, he visited the highlands of Scotland, where he saw a field of this clover growing. He pulled some of the seed and planted it around his uncle's home in the south of England. When he was there during the war it had developed a healthy growth so he brought back some of the seed to experiment with it here, and so far his garden plots have been very successful.

GLORIOUS TWELFTH DULY CELEBRATED BY ORANGE ORDER

Red Deer July 12.—Ideal weather and a good attendance, with plenty of action and amusement for everyone, featured the Orange celebration of Red Deer and district, put on under the auspices of the local lodge, No. 1625.

Orangemen, their wives and families, and a number of friends came by car from Rocky Mountain House, Condon, Eckville, Wetaskiwin, Ponoka, Lacombe, Clive, Horn Hill, Lochinvar, and Olds. A splendid turnout was also recorded among the members of the L.O.H.A.

At 11 o'clock the Orangemen and members of the L.O.H.A. assembled at the Orange Hall and formed a marching column, which proceeded to the exhibition grounds. A program of sports had been arranged and was put into action at one o'clock, when the Willowdale ball team clashed with the Penhold crew in the first game of the day's series. The boys from the valley of the willows swung their native wood to such good purpose that they came out on the big end of an 8-4 count, and went on against Belknapville as a result of their win.

Meanwhile sports were being given to those in the grandstand by his worship Mayor E. G. Johns and R. W. Brother "Bub" White, field secretary of the L.O.H.A. The mayor in his remarks stated that whatever one's opinion of the work done by the Orange association, the fact had to be admitted that they were intensely loyal to the mother country, and on behalf of the city of Red Deer he welcomed them. He assured the lodge that at any time the city council was willing to give them the freedom of the city on the glorious twelfth.

"I hope you will come back again," he said. "You will be always welcome."

As field secretary, Bub White gave very interesting and graphic outline of the work in which the lodge is engaged. "We stand," the speaker said, "for freedom of religion for everyone. That is what the battle of the Boyne was fought for."

"Our greatest asset in Canada," he continued, "is our Irish generation, and if they can be taught tolerance and brotherhood, and instead of antagonism, cooperation, then we need not fear for the homes in our fair land."

And here the speaker stressed the importance of loyalty to the motherland as being an important item in the training of our boys and girls.

Speaking of the charitable work done by the L.O.H.A., he stated that a million dollars, had been spent last year in building and improving orphanages in which less than five per cent of the children had parents in Orange or L.O.H.A. lodges. "This shows," he asserted, "that we do not only take care of our own, but care for the helpless kiddies irrespective of color or creed."

Worshipful Brother R. Pye, of Horn Hill, acted as chairman, and introduced the speakers.

Following the speeches, a program of foot races was begun, starting with the younger runners and working up to the adult speed contests.

MA WAS MISTAKEN

A young fellow who was calling on a Millet girl was slightly embarrassed the other evening. He had no more than got seated in the parlor waiting for the appearance of the girl than her mother asked him his "intentions." This flustered him quite a bit, but was nothing to how he felt when the daughter called down the stairway, "That isn't the one, mother."

DRAWING THE CROWD

"Oddity is the best policy," seems to be the most recent slogan of the Japanese shopkeeper. This is especially true of the small shops that have sprung up all over Tokio since the earthquake of 1923.

One shop claims to give the highest discount for cash purposes. The sign reads, "Take (Japanese) rocks at a hundred yen a pair, with ninety-nine yen off for cash."

A fruit store goes by the name of "Fighting House." When the proprietor was asked what the connection was between fruit and fighting, he answered that the word "fight" always attracted a crowd, and the crowd might as well gather in front of his shop window as anywhere else.

Discounts are announced nearly everywhere; but one man decided to be different, so he said: "Absolutely no discount here. You pay through the nose." The results, he claims, are exceptionally good.

LIFE ON THE FARM

(By Augustus Dum)
I'd lived in a city all my life. Not only that, but so had my wife. Now we decided the life with farm was the one out here on a little farm. For we were tired of all the strife which goes together with city life. So we sold our stuff and went out West. To the rural life of peace and rest. For five long years we've learned the art. Of how to farm and not lose heart. But let me tell you the peaceful way in which sometimes we spent our day.

At four a.m. the "farm clock" rang. And out of bed with a leap I sprang. I'd a lot of work to do that day. I'd got to haul a load of hay. The cow to milk, the pigs to feed, My team to harness and to feed. Water to carry from the well; Hogs to haul to town to sell; To keep them long wouldn't pay; And town was twenty miles away.

I went to the barn my team to feed. Now "Captain" was a noble steed. You'd never think he'd balk, by hook! But when you came to hitch him up, He'd wriggle worse than any pup; He'd stand up on his hindmost legs, Just like a poodle when it begs; He'd kick; he'd rear; he'd bit; Worse than a snarling dog he'd hit; And when at last, worn out, he'd stand With feet spread wide there in the sand, He seem'd to say with flashing eye: "I will not pull until I die!"

"I will teach you," I said that day, "To pull that little load of hay." I took him out and his head tied Short to his tail. "Now go!" I cried. And thinking he was loose he went, But found his noble neck was bent, And so the horse went round and round.

Until by poor fool thought the ground Was whirling top, And I stood by And waved a stick when he did try To stop and gaze upon the world, And see if really it whirled.

Thinking at last that he was drunk, Down to the ground the poor horse sank.

Over I walked and loosed his head. "Now, Calp, my boy, get up," I said. "We'll hitch you up again today. And see if you will haul the hay." I hitched him up, "Alright," I cried. And off he walked with swinging stride.

Pulling the load right willingly! I, driving him, cried: "Now you see That man was made to rule o'er all. Sometimes he may be rather small, But size don't count when you have brains."

"Alright," you dog, you win; I said. And back to the barn my team I led. The results, he claims, are exceptionally good.

Now the cow had torn her teats, you see.

So I had to tie her to a tree. "Whoo, there, Boss, with this here you fool!" Or I'll trim you with a stick here stool! If you have not got more sense, Than to crawl through every blessed fence, And scratch your teats from end to end, Then don't count me to be your friend. Just then she moved her leg so quick And gave the pull one awful kick! The milk splash'd me from head to foot "You dog!" I cried; "You dirty mutt!" Then with a pitchfork I began Her glossy bridle hide to tan; She resented and jumped back; The rope busted with a crack! So over the hill and into the bush, That silly old cow went with a rush. "Go, you fool. I don't give a darn!" Said I to myself walking back to the barn.

The hay was thus finished, so was the cow; Load the fat pigs was the thing to do now.

I backed my wagon up to the pen. And counted off my fat pigs ten. For a whole long hour I sweated there, Shouting and heaving and trying to scare

Those ten fat hogs into that load; At last I got them safely loaded, Then slowly to the house I walked, Since I got up five hours had passed. "Well, wife, is breakfast ready yet?" "Ready? Why, yes, you bet! Breakfast was ready at quarter 'tis eight."

What in the world made you so late?" I turned away with a muttered curse. Then I saw at the barn far worse. I realized now it was too late, That I had forgotten to latch the gate. One silly pig had prided with his snout, And now the whole darn bunch was out!

Edmonton, July 15.—Dr. John A. Hislop was acquitted by a jury last night on charges of manslaughter and performing an illegal operation in connection with the death of Patti Thelma Burnup, stenographer, in a private nursing home in this city on October 22 last. The verdict was announced by C. W. Turner, foreman, after the jury had deliberated three hours and fifty minutes.

NEAR TRAGEDY AS
CAR THROWS TIRE

Calgary, July 15.—Ten thousand wildly excited enthusiasts greeted a sign of relief at the Calgary exhibition on Saturday afternoon when they realized that Miss Marion Martin, European title-holder, had managed to control her car, after throwing a tire when travelling at the rate of a mile a minute in the auto races here.

Miss Martin was competing against Miss Alfreda Zisk, champion of the United States, in the special match event for women drivers. Having received a very poor start, Miss Martin was about 75 feet behind when the mishap occurred. She had piloted her automobile down the home stretch at the rate of a mile a minute. Just as she made the turn, the right back tire came off and rolled into the fence. Miss Martin displayed wonderful skill in controlling the car and escaped unhurt in the face of what appeared to be certain death.

Royal Burritt, of Winalago, who is to visit here officially on July 20.

The next meeting of the provincial Elks' lodge will be held in Camrose next year. Dr. Knox went to Calgary bearing a nicely worded resolution setting forth the reasons why Camrose should be considered for the convention, and upon presentation, Grand Leading Knight McLean of Edmonton, moved its adoption.—Camrose Canadian.

open hole in his head. One slash and the worn leather trace parted; another took the side strap that held the shaft. The end of the singletree flew back and the trace on the other end slipped off the hook. At the same instant the half-trail side strap broke with the fall had just upon it and the shafts dropped to the ground. Suddenly relieved of the load, the old horse shot forward, and Nat brought his split down on the rump of the surprised animal.

A moment later a crash behind them told the riders that the solid column of cattle had struck the abandoned wagon. Already the leaders were running abreast on either side, leaving a narrow space where the men rode. Presently the screams of cattle would flow together, and men and horses would be running close in their midst.

The column appeared thinnest to the left, and Nat urged his horse in that direction, shouting to the man at his side to keep with him. Presently they were among the close-running cattle and unable to stem the tide were being carried along with them. Nat could easily have outrun them but he regretted the pace of his pony to that of the man by his side. Taking every little advantage, they worked their way toward the outer edge of the racing herd as they went forward.

Once Nat's pony stepped into a badger hole and went to his knees, but caught himself without checking his speed, though his rider had a swift picture of what would happen to him and the boy if he were unhorsed in front of that mauling, belching mass.

Two hundred yards they ran thus without gaining much toward the outer edge of the thundering mass. The old horse the settler rode was becoming winded.

Through the cloud of dust Nat presently espied the bank of a dry ravine just ahead of them. The cattle were swerving to the right to avoid the obstruction, but with a shout to his companion he guided his horse straight toward the bank. It was not more than a few feet jump, and both horses cleared it along with half a dozen steers that had failed to turn. Riding down the bed of the ravine, the fugitives were soon safe out of the path of the stampeding cattle.

LONE RIDGE

On Wednesday afternoon last the annual picnic of the Lone Ridge local of the U.F.A. was held at the Lone Ridge hall, and a very large crowd assembled to enjoy the sports. The day was fine, and as the crops in this community are in excellent condition, everybody was in a happy mood and bent on having a good time. In the basketball game the team from Lone Ridge school defeated the representatives of Twin Creek school by the close score of 12-11. One of the big attractions was the baseball game between Anthony Hill and the Lone Ridge districts, the former winning by the score of 7-4. Horse races and broncho busting were also on the program of sports.

The Hon. Perrin Baker, minister of education for Alberta, was in attendance and delivered an excellent address on educational matters. He was introduced by the local member, E. E. Sparks.

A very successful picnic and enjoyable occasion was concluded by a dance in the evening, which was largely attended. Scott's orchestra furnished the music.

The next meeting of the Lone Ridge local will be held on Thursday evening, August 6th.

COMMUNICATIONS

C. G. I. T. GIRLS AT BANFF

Banff, July 13, 1925

Editor, Wetaskiwin Times:
Dear Sir—We arrived at Banff safely on Tuesday evening and settled ourselves in a small cottage on Muskat street. We spend the days at the Cave and Basin, Sulphur and Hot Springs, and at Bow Falls. On Saturday morning we climbed to the top of Tunnel Mountain. We found no springs and were very tired and thirsty when we reached home. The animals are very cunning, especially when being fed. It is amusing and interesting to watch the polar bear eat fish. The museum and fish hatchery are very interesting and instructive.

There are many tourists at Banff, the camping ground being white with tents.

Tonight we are expecting a friend who will spend a few days with us. While she is here we intend to climb to the top of Sulphur mountain, which is a trip of eight miles.

Wednesday evening the Chicago Elks, who visited here that day, gave a very delightful band concert.

On Saturday evening, Earl Haig, who is spending a few days in Banff, gave an address to the Great War Veterans at the C.P.R. Hotel, following a parade.

Hoping to see Wetaskiwin soon, we remain,

Edith Cavell C.G.I.T.

A BAD BOY'S END

Summary Justice was meted out to Howard Louie by his ma last Friday when she spanked him thoroughly and completely in the presence of Constable Rodgers, who pronounced a judicial decision that ma knew her business when wielding the well-known rod which has brought so many of us up along the path of rectitude.

Howard's offence consisted in bold highway robbery, the dread deed being committed in snatching a purse from Peggy Ekes, Peggy, a kid of tender years, was on her way home from the home of her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Richards, when Howard, who had been skulking in the bush in the manner of approved bandits, pulled his sweater over his face and seized the purse Peggy was carrying.

The robbery was complete enough to satisfy the most exacting bandit, as Peggy was left holding the handles only. She did not take kindly to the thrilling and romantic adventure and lifted up her voice in loud lamentation, bringing neighbors hurriedly to the rescue. Chief Detective Rodgers was requisitioned and sleuthed along a doubtful trail, having only the knowledge that the sweater worn by the highway robber was red. With this slender clue, Bill traced the boy down, and in three hours performed the well known R.W.M.P. stunt of "getting his man." Howard confessed his iniquity; his mother made good the stolen money, which Howard had thoughtfully spent in an orgy of pop, ice cream and other delicacies. Chief Rodgers decided that the ends of justice would be served if Ma handed Howard what was coming to him at his end of justice (Howard's end, that is); Ma did it; the incident was closed.—Vegreville Observer.

CORRECTIONS IN SCHOOL REPORT

Last week we published the report of the promotion examinations in the Alexandra and King Edward schools, but it has been drawn to our attention that errors appeared in the copy handed to us. We therefore append the corrections.

In the report of the King Edward school, the name of Kathleen Walker should have been included in the list of those who were promoted from Grade VI to VII. She stood 16th in a class of 25.

In the Alexandra school, the following list should have read from Grade I to Grade II, instead of from Grade I to Grade III:
Grade I to II.—Emma Feldberg, Audrey Neal, Mary Knack, Edward Vaud, Albert Muel, Lawrence Ford, Willie Knall, Sammie Knall, Francis Scott, Alice Spencer, Jean Bridgman, Pearl Collicutt, James Thompson, Glad Gardner, Earl Baker, Olga Thy, Donna Kelley, Olga Schneek, Florence Remus, Daniel Littman, Thelma Walker, Annie Vuodel, Glendon Thomas, Lillian Munn, Roland Wagar, Grace Rice, Vera Pritchard, Evelyn Varsaitre. Total 25.—Mrs. W. Walker, teacher.

MILLET

Mrs. Fred H. Nichols and children, Mary, Helen and Arthur, of Golden, B.C., arrived in Millet on Saturday, July 4th, on a two months' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weir. Mrs. Nichols will be much better remembered by the old timers as Hazel Weir.

One Wagner Moped, of the Golden, on June 17, while on his round trip to the coast and back through the States. He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. P. Nichols, and was greatly impressed by the good roads being built in the mountains, and by the beautiful scenery. In fact, he nearly tipped up several times while gazing at the snowed peaks, and intends to let people know the tourist possibilities of those parts when he gets back to Millet.

There have been a great many bush fires in the B.C. mountain districts this year and recently the C.R.L. Co. at Golden had the misfortune to lose their planing mill in a spectacular fire of unknown origin. Fred Nichols, formerly of Millet, lives there and informs us that a new planing mill is being built at great speed.

BRIGHTVIEW

June 30 was closing day at the Ernest Park school, west and south of Brightview. After a short review of lessons, a program was given by the pupils. This marked the closing of a successful year for the teacher, Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, who delighted the children with a treat of candy, nuts, and ice cream.

A very enjoyable event took place at the home of Mrs. N. H. Allen, south-west of Brightview, on Monday, July 6, when a number of the families of the Ernest Park school district, gathered for a surprise party to their teacher, Mrs. A. A. Ferguson. The children presented Mrs. Ferguson with a gold Eversharp pencil. A pleasant evening was spent with games and music followed by sandwiches, cake and ice cream. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson leave in a few days on an auto tour to the coast.

The Strathcona Baptist quartet, delighted a large audience at the Brightview Baptist church on Sunday afternoon, July 12, with a number of sacred quartettes. Their singing was greatly appreciated, and it is hoped that the gentlemen will be able to come again.

Mrs. A. G. Stevens has returned from a month's visit with her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) S. J. Waterman, at Peace River.

Mrs. Dunning of Peace River, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) A. J. Milton, at the parsonage, Brightview.

A worth while thought for those who are rearing the "Nation's Greatest Asset".

Pro a boy to raise and I want a man. When his growing days are done; And a man must work for the crop he seeks,

Is it different with a son? 'Till strangers care for my wheat out there,

When the weeds grow rank and wild? If my crops would shrink if I idled here,

Dare I idle with my child?

Everybody knows the success of outdoor sports and games depends on being fit. A person who is not fit has no staying power, while a person who is fit has a reserve of strength at the last which he can rely on if necessary.

But the frequent use of intoxicating drinks even in the strictest moderation spoils the muscles by causing them to lose their spring and become flabby and by allowing useless fat to form in the muscle tissue. Such a muscle is easily tired out. The muscles of the heart as well as of the back, legs and arms are also seriously changed. When the heart is beating properly the blood carries food and oxygen to all the cells of the body. But if the heart beats weakly or irregularly the cells are starved or choked. A weakened heart may give way if an extra strain is put on or active exercise taken. A moderate use of alcohol robs the blood of its red corpuscles, causing weakness.

Alcohol unfits us by its effect on the brain, if the brain is working faultily the muscles receive faulty instruction, and without instruction from the brain they are helpless.

Those who wish to excel in outdoor games and sports must keep away from alcohol. There is, in fact, no end to the harm the most moderate use of alcohol does to fitness.

You would not be ashamed of your stationery if it had been printed at The Times office.

NAMES ON MAIL BOXES

Every person who owns a rural mail box should have his name painted on it in bold letters. Several of the city folks like to occasionally make a short motor trip off the beaten paths and when they do they like to know on route. The majority of places are well kept and the owners thereof should not be ashamed to let the public know who lives upon the farm behind the mail box, and besides it would often save time and annoyance when one wishes to call upon a rural neighbor either on business or in a social way.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned wish through the columns of The Times to sincerely thank the neighbors and many kind friends for their expressions of sympathy and for the assistance rendered during their recent bereavement. They are especially grateful for the many floral tributes received.
